RADIO:60

“WAR STORIES”

4/7/11

WOMAN: I’m a consular officer in Kabul, not a control booth operator at a TV studio. So when we needed broadcast components that were compatible without being costly, I needed some timely, diplomatic assistance.

ANNCR.: We gave it. We’re BandHGovernment.com.

1ST MAN: My point-and-shoot experience is about hitting targets with a weapon, not capturing them with a camera. So when I was ordered to put together Combat Camera kits for the Army, I needed advice from real photo veterans.

ANNCR.: We volunteered. We’re BandHGovernment.com.

2ND MAN: I love ‘em. I hate ‘em. My commanding officer wants Pentagon contracts filled yesterday. B&H always comes through with the right products, best advice, and lowest prices. But when someone else gets the contract, we wait. And wait. And wait. I hate that.

ANNCR.: We love it. We’re BandHGovernment.com. And our five GSA contracts for more than 150,000 items tap one of the biggest inventories anywhere of just about every kind of electronics equipment you could want.

WOMAN: For broadcast components...

1ST MAN: And camera equipment...

2ND MAN: And anything else...

ANNCR.: You go to B&H, at BandHGovernment.com. That’s BandHGovernment.com.
